4. Read the two texts and answer the following questions.
a. Which text portrays a modern teacher?
b. What relationship is there between Miss B and her students?
c. Which text is part of an interview and which is an excerpt from a story?

1. Miss B

She was a punitive little body and the school had christened her Crabby; she had a sour yellow, lank hair coiled in earphones, and the skin and voice of a turkey. We were all afraid of the gobbling Miss B; she spied, she pried, she crept, she pounced - she was a terror.

Each morning was war without declaration; no one knew who would catch it next. We stood to attention, half-crippled in our desks, till Miss B walked in, whacked the walls with a ruler, and fixed us with her squinting eye. "Good a-morning, children!" "Good morning, Teacher!" The greeting was like a rattling of swords. Then she would scowl at the floor and begin to growl "Ar Farther . . ." at which we said the Lord's Prayer, praised all good things, and thanked God for the health of our King. But scarcely had we bellowed the last Amen than Crabby coiled, uncoiled, and sprang, and knocked some poor boy.

(Laurie Lee, Cider with Rosie)

2. The Master

Cambridge University is a federation of 31 independent colleges. So as Master of Trinity Hall, Martin Daunton is head of a college managing its own finances, electing its own scholars - known as fellows - to teach and research, and selecting its own students.

Intimacy, friendliness and a strong sense of community are traditions of Trinity Hall that Martin Daunton is determined to preserve. "We have made a deliberate decision to stay a small college," he says. "We can then all know each other and can be intimate, friendly and supportive. And that means if we get someone in who has any social unease, we can really look after them well." The Master in my days at Trinity Hall was a remote figure and Martin Daunton was amazed to hear that I had never been invited inside the Master's lodge. He takes an interest in all that the students do, including their tendency to binge-drink when they first come up. He finds that doesn't last and students soon get involved in some of the many activities within the college." I was struck last Friday and Saturday night," he tells me. "I went into the bar expecting to find it full of legless young students. In fact it wasn't. They are doing other things, they are being active."
"Legless" is by no means the only colloquial term Martin Daunton uses during our conversation. He tells me it is the college policy not to take students who are just "swots". "What we want," he says, "is people who realize it's possible to get a good result and take part in the college activities, sing in the choir, row in one of the eights, debate in the political society. I feel it's very important for me to encourage all these sorts of activities."

5. Re-read the two texts and the vocabulary box, then answer the questions.

1. Is there any connection between the way Miss B/Crabby looks and the way she behaves?
2. Does her relationship with the pupils stimulate learning? Explain.
3. Does Martin Daunton manage the college as an autocrat? Give arguments.
4. What elements in the Master's vocabulary point to his relationship with the students?
5. Talk about Crabby's and Martin Daunton's relationships with their students.
6. The verbs in the first text are in the Past Tense. Identify the sentence which refers to repeated actions in the past.

A traditional relationship

- Talking it over

1. Modern times have brought important changes in the relationships between parents and children, students and teachers, citizens of different ethnic origins, etc. Can you think of other areas where relationships have undergone changes? Talk to your partner.

- Listening

2. Listen to the first part of a lecture on the British monarchy.

Queen Elizabeth II

The Civil List is an annual allowance, approved by Parliament, made to the sovereign and members of the royal family for the expense involved in carrying out their public duties.

Exchequer is the government department responsible for the collection of taxes and the paying out of public money.

Does the Queen still play any part in the relationship with the parliament and the institutions of government?

3. Listen again and fill in the gaps.

Change seems to be the fashion of the day (1) . . . . . there are areas of public life where calls (2) . . . . . change should be treated with great caution. One (3) . . . . . area of debate is the British monarchy, the centerpiece of the British Constitution, (4) . . . . . . has developed over hundreds of years. It is also a feature (5) . . . . . the times that individuals and their functions often become confused (6) . . . . . . the public mind - and this is certainly true with the monarch and (7) . . . . . role. When such a big issue is involved, (8) . . . . . . is important to retain a sense of perspective and clarity, and to look at the benefits (9) . . . . . . the nation of this institution.

The Queen was once asked what (10) . . . . . . thought her role was: she (11) . . . . . . that it consists in being, not doing. Her service is not in rushing around doing things but in being always unchanging, remaining quiet and observant (12) . . . . . . the affairs of the nation. That is an invaluable asset for any nation, to have (13) . . . . . at the heart of government who remains always steady, true vigilant and (14) . . . . . . politics. It allows the government, considered in its entirety, to be likened to a flywheel, with stillness at the centre of the hub (15) . . which turns, with unceasing motion, all the machinery of governance.
(adapted from Beautiful Britain - spring 2006)

4. Listen to the second part of the lecture and tick the correct answer.

1. People's fluctuating appreciation of monarchy comes from
a) jealousy
b) complete ignorance of the role of this institution
c) unawareness of its role and service to the nation
